To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to confirm that Andrew Kao, a predoctoral fellow under my supervision, is not eligible for research and travel funding from Harvard University. The university and department's research funds are eligible for undergraduate and graduate students, and due to Andrew's affiliation as a predoctoral fellow, he is not eligible for these funding opportunities.

Therefore, if the AEFPP could provide travel support for Andrew, that would be most appreciated, and it would be tremendously helpful for Andrew as a young scholar to attend the conference in person and to interact with other conference participants.

Thank you very much, and please feel free to contact me if you need additional information.

Sincerely,

David Yang
